Field of studies: CINEMATOGRAPHY AND MEDIA – Hungarian line of study

MASTER'S PROGRAMME: The Art of Short Filmmaking (in Hungarian)

Accredited by the Romanian Ministry of Education, Culture and Research, Bologna system

Form of study: full-time

Duration of studies: 4 semesters

Type of programme: Professional Master's Degree

Description of the specialisation: The programme is primarily aimed at graduates with a degree in Cinematography, Photography, Media, Filmology, Performing Arts (Directing), Communication or Journalism, as well as graduates from other fields if they are interested in producing short films and have a basic background in photography and/or film.

During their studies, students will be able to deepen their professional knowledge with teachers from Romania and Hungary, as well as with other recognized specialists in the world of film. Due to the small number of students, there is an opportunity for individual and group work, team building and a more personal teacher-student relationship through individual consultation, ensuring a thorough preparation. In order to complete their studies, students will prepare an individual short film project in any style: documentary, animation, or fiction.

ADMISSION EXAMINATION:

Oral examination:

The candidate will take an online interview in Hungarian, based on an individual project (art film, documentary, animation, etc.), previously written in Hungarian. The interview will test the candidate's general knowledge in the field.

The project must contain a motivation, target audience, outline structure, synopsis, and a section arguing the feasibility of the project.

For the interview, candidates will receive an invitation to the platform where the interview will take place, and they are responsible for the technical management of their participation in the interview (access to webcam, functional microphone). As the interviews may be filmed, candidates give their consent for recording. The images thus obtained will only be used for assessment purposes.

Evaluation criteria:

- ✓ ability to argue the relevance of the short film project;
- ✓ knowledge of the specifics of film production;
- ✓ knowledge and appropriate use of domain-specific terminology;
- ✓ general film and media literacy

Tie-breaking criteria:

- ✓ the average obtained at the Bachelor's Degree examination;
- ✓ the average obtained at the Baccalaureate examination.

The final mark is the average (to two decimal places) of the full marks awarded by the members of the Examination Committee.

NOTE: Candidates will specify in the Application Form the option for one of the specialisations. Candidates will be grouped in series and examined according to the option declared on the Application Form. Transfers between specialisations and lines of study are not allowed.

NOTE: The minimum admission average for all specialisations is 6 (six).
